HSE Award in Managing Risks and Risk Assessment at Work

The HSE Award in Managing Risks and Risk Assessment at Work (RAW), is an introductory level qualification jointly developed with the health and safety regulator for Great Britain, the Health and Safety Executive. It is structured around the Health and Safety Executive's approach to controlling the risks caused by workplace hazards.

The course is suited to anyone involved in managing workplace health and safety risks including those who undertake risk assessments.

It will examine how to:

- Identify hazards
- Assess risks using simple HSE tools
- Evaluate risks in a proportionate and sensible manner
- Identify suitable control measures

Entry Qualifications

There are no entry requirements for this qualification. However, it is important that learners have a suitable standard of English language to understand and articulate the concepts contained in the syllabus. The qualification is set at a notional SCQF Level 5/RQF Level 2.

Course

The mode of study will be by distance learning. Learners will be sent printed notes containing multiple choice questions to test their understanding of the topics in the syllabus. Answers to these questions must be returned for marking by post or email. After completing the multiple-choice questions learners must complete a NEBOSH risk assessment case study. This will be sent out with the course notes.

Assessment

The risk assessment case study is graded by the course tutor to assess whether it is a pass or a refer. If it is a PASS the grade will be sent to NEBOSH. If it is a REFER it will be sent back with feedback to be modified for a resubmission.

Fees

The total course fee with printed course notes and the assessment registration fee is £215
